

Phil Reynolds

Phil Reynolds, a Senior Consulting Partner for The Ken Blanchard Companies® since 1998, is an energetic, enthusiastic, and motivational trainer for groups of all sizes. His sense of humor and his strong, positive attitude enable him to create a comfortable environment for participants. They learn meaningful concepts and tools that will help them grow as leaders and transform their lives in practical and observable ways.

Phil has done extensive work with leaders and executive teams to increase communication, collaboration, and partnership. He offers expertise in the areas of personal leadership, teamwork, and executive development, and excels at helping senior leaders and teams work together more effectively in order to achieve strategic goals. Phil has worked closely with many Fortune 500 companies and has a unique talent for implementing concepts and ideas into practical workplace solutions.

In 2009, Phil coauthored the 21-Day Situational Self Leadership Action Plan, a sustainability product for The Ken Blanchard Companies' Situational Self Leadership program.

Phil's professional experience prior to joining Blanchard® encompassed more than 25 years as a business developer, sales manager, trainer, and speaker in both profit and nonprofit organizations.

Phil holds a Bachelor of Education degree from East Central University and a Master of Divinity from Southwestern Theological Seminary. He is certified to administer and interpret various tools and resources that support executive development, including DiSC®, Myers-Briggs Type Indicator®, and the Booth 360 leadership assessments. He is also a member of the International Coach Federation and a Certified Coach with Coaches Training Institute.

Phil enjoys running marathons and half-marathons, helping to raise money for cancer research, and reading in his spare time.
